Restrictive Housing at RIDOC March, 2019

At the Rhode Island Department of Corrections (RIDOC) electronic data is currently maintained for restrictive housing inmates who are either classified to Administrative Confinement or sanctioned to Disciplinary Confinement.

To avoid over reporting by double counting inmates, data included in this report reflects an inmates "most serious" housing assignment. Therefore, if an inmate is classified to administrative confinement but also serving a sanction of disciplinary confinement time, the inmate will be counted as an administrative confinement inmate. However, where the data contained in this report lists infractions that resulted in disciplinary confinement, all inmates serving a sanction of disciplinary confinement are reported as well as all sanctions. This may result in more infractions to report than individual inmates serving a sanction of disciplinary confinement time.

The below data tables represents RIDOC's restrictive housing population on March 31, 2019.

On March 31, 2019, 99 inmates were held in restrictive housing at RIDOC.

The majority of inmates classified to administrative confinement are housed at the High Security Center.

As of March 31, 2019 there was one woman being held in disciplinary confinement and none classified to administrative confinement.

Percentage of population in restrictive housing

As of March 31, 2019, restrictive housing inmates represent less than 4% of the total inmate population at RIDOC.

Restrictive Housing Inmate Population and Total Inmate Population as of 3-31-19

		Most Serious Confinement Type		Total Restrictive Housing
		Inmate Population
SECURITY	High Security	92	41 (44.6%) 5 (5.4%)	46 (50%)
	Intake Service Center	890	0 18 (2.0%)	18 (2.0%)
	Maximum Security	386	5 (1.29%) 17 (4.4%)	22 (5.7%)
	Medium Security	927	0 12 (1.3%)	12 (1.3%)
	Women's Facility	163	0 1 (0.6%)	1 (0.6%)
Total Population		2677*	46 (1.72%) 53 (2.0%)	99 (3.7%)

*Total population includes all RIDOC inmate facilities (Minimum Security (n=219) is not listed here as restrictive housing inmates are not housed at Minimum Security)

Length of stay (LOS) for inmates in restrictive housing

Inmates LOS reflects the current amount of time they have consecutively served in restrictive housing through March 31, 2019 across all discipline sanctions and, if applicable, their classification to administrative confinement.

As administrative confinement is a classification and not a sanction, inmates in this status tend to stay longer than those sanctioned to disciplinary confinement.

Length of time inmates have been held in restrictive housing

In these tables, the mean, median, mode, minimum and maximum number of days stayed as March 31, 2019 are reported.

The mean is the average of all observed values (number of days in confinement). It can be skewed by very small or very large values (outliers).

The median is the values that falls in the middle of all observed values and is not influenced by outliers; it is truly the middle of the dataset.

The mode is the value that occurred most often.

The minimum is the least number of days stayed and the maximum is the greatest number of days stayed. Providing the minimum and the maximum values illustrates the range of values.

Administrative Confinement (n=46)		# of days in Confinement
	Mean	179
	Median	110
	Mode	12
	Minimum	5
	Maximum	642

Disciplinary Confinement (n=53)		# of days in Confinement
	Mean	37
	Median	17
	Mode	4
	Minimum	1
	Maximum	344

Infractions resulting in disciplinary confinement sanctions

Consistent with RIDOC policy, the data below shows that the longest terms of disciplinary confinement are reserved for the most serious infractions. On March 31, 2019, terms of disciplinary confinement of more than 30 days were only issued for violent infractions.
